

Public Disclosure for Licensure and Certificate Programs: Nursing Website: Nurse Aide

The NNMC Nurse Aide Training Program (approved by the NM Department of Health) meets certification requirements in all 50 states if the candidate successfully passes the Nurse Aide Certification exam in NM. NM requirements for a CNA Training Program states that the program must meet all federal requirements. NM does not impose any additional requirements for training. All States must meet the federal requirements (42 CFR 483.152). There are some states that require additional training, however, when a NM CNA is requesting reciprocity in another state, they are still deemed competent for certification in another state regardless of the training requirements.
